Rosario Passinello

made a mano[®] I T A L I A

presents a selection of the latest works with new techniques.

The company's philosophy is to merge traditional techniques with contemporary designs.

All products are made with manual processes and customized.

Made a Mano

is the fusion of ancient artisan techniques with modern processes and high technology is the fusion of our lava stone of Etna volcano with the traditions of the ceramic art from Caltagirone is Rosario Parrinello, the man who since almost 50 years studies and researches new applications for modern environments and high-designer is a group of collaborators that with the Rosario's sons gives continuity to a centuries-old tradition is a reality that tries to stay one step ahead of what has been achieved

is the fusion of our work with your imagination

We are Made a Mano, we are italians, sicilians proud to be exported all over the world.

Material descriptions:

Lava Stone: PLL - PLA

Natural stone extracted from ETNA Volcano. It undergoes a special process, before it is worked as a common granite, later with fusion techniques (from 1000 ° up) is worked with various manual techniques such as ceramic. The result is outstanding. The new material - lava stone ceramized is resistant to heat, cold, acid and more. It can be processed with different techniques and it is suitable for different uses for inside and outside.

Terracotta: CI - CS - CM

The clay material can be a common industrial product - CI or CS - always glazed and decorated by hand. Or it may be a mixture of Sicilian clays selected and refined that are mixed with dust of lava - CM. These clays give great charm because the manual operations lend the finished product in addition to an incomparable beauty, some resistances and uses as the strength of Etna lava stone.
